“ Dianne (Estep) Williams

I went to school with Ricky at Pleasant View. The thing that I recall about Ricky is that he always had a mild spirit and a sheepish grin on his face most of the time. When we were younger, I enjoyed him singing the song "Battle of New Orleans by Johnny Horton." I could tell that he loved playing basketball with his friends and teammates. I would get a kick out of Ricky hanging his head out of the school bus when we would be pulling up or leaving the school after a game singing the song "We Are The Champions my friends." I hope the family is comforted by those around them during this difficult time.

“What can I say Rick Cagle.....you were one of a kind & all who knew you loved you or hated you there was no in between. Legendary is a good word to describe you as your legacy will live on thru the many stories & memories so many have to share when it comes to you. Couldn't stay mad at you no matter how hard I wanted to! You are forever in our hearts.....fly high my friend
