“ This is his son, Blake my father was an extraordinary man, a happy-go-lucky, helpful, uplifting, beacon of hope, family, friends man, although he didn't get to see his friends that much. He always enjoyed the company and was someone who will be missed by man far and wide for a long time. The community and world losing him truly has a lot of people, not just friends and family, but acquaintances, and people he worked with alike. He was the type of dad that everyone in this world would strive to have he always kept pushing me for better. Which as his son I will always strive to be better he also taught me that hard times build success and failure is not a option. I embody the values that he taught me and the values he carried himself, and he was truly a wonderful father raising me since two years old I will forever miss my father. I love you dad.
